English Monday 29th June 2020 Journey to the Jungle

Visiting a jungle
Let's revisit my diary entry.

Jungle Log: 18th April, 2020

Today has been an amazing day of discovery! I woke early and got ready for my trek into the Atlanti Jungle. I was excited and couldn't wait to see what lay ahead of me. I packed my rucksack and put on my sturdy walking boots. I made sure my camera was working because I wanted to record as much of the day as possible. I left the camp at 6am.

First, I trudged through the dense forest and collected samples of the plant life. My favourite was a thorny bush. It had tiny, yellow flowers growing on it, which smelt like ice cream! Next, I studied some of the mesmerising insects that were crawling up the rough bark of every tree. One insect looked like a caterpillar but had 2 sets of wings and tiny hands on the ends of its 20 legs. Excitedly, I photographed as many creatures as I could because I wanted to show my explorer friends what I had discovered.

After a short tea break, I measured the circumference of the tallest trees to work out how old they were. One measured 10 metres around and was so tall that I couldn't see the top of it. It reminded me of the beanstalk in a famous children's story. Next, I trekked to a clearing and found a beautiful plunge pool. The water was turquoise and tiny neon fish were splashing on the surface. I tried to catch one, but they were too fast for me. Then it was time for a rest. I lounged on pink grass, soaking up the purple sun beams and listened to the strange jungle noises around me.

Finally, I headed back to camp because the sun began to set. It sets quickly in Oreno and I was worried I might get lost. When I got to my tent, I unpacked my rucksack and stored my plant samples safely. I'm really looking forward to where my wardrobe will take me next week!

Can you give your Jungle a name?

Your log

★ Now let's imagine we have explored our new jungle and you are going to write your explorer's log. Follow the same pattern as mine and use this planner to jot down the ideas for yours.

Purple Group write at least 2 more sentences telling me who the call was from and what they wanted.

Blue Group write at least 5 more sentences telling me what happens next.

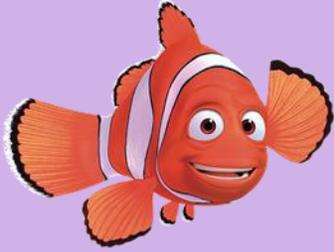

Green Group write at least 1 more paragraph telling me what happens next.

Orange Group write at least 2 paragraphs telling me what happens next.

Guided Reading 29th June 2020

After work, Batman always called in at his favourite café in Gotham City. We all have different ways of relaxing; a game of sport, watching television, going for a bike-ride...Batman's was enjoying a steaming hot cup of coffee whilst reading the newspaper.

Batman looked forward to having an evening off, however evenings off didn't always tend be that relaxing. Ring ring...Ring ring...Ring ring...There was a call from the phone behind the counter...

- Once you have visited the Eiffel Tower and looked at the views use the internet to find some fun facts about the structure.
- You could even make a fact file

la Tour Eiffel – The Eiffel Tower

Over 300 metres high.

Sits beside the River Seine in Paris.

The tower was only meant to be a temporary structure. It was the winner of a competition to celebrate the centenary of the French Revolution.

Until 1930 it was the tallest building in the world.

When it was discovered that the tower made an excellent radio antenna, the city of Paris decided to keep it.

The tower is cleaned all year round.

In 2014, a glass floor called the 'le plancher transparent' was installed on the first floor.

Was built between 1887-1889.

When it was first built many people thought it was very ugly.

It was designed to be easily dismantled as it only had permission to stand for 20 years.

Designed by Gustave Eiffel and his engineering company.

The tower is repainted every seven years. It takes 18 months to paint and is painted in 3 shades of brown.

The names of 72 famous French engineers and scientist are engraved in the tower, just under the first balcony.

Here are some facts to get you started.
