WHALES

W hales can swim faster than some fish. They swim 32 mph. They are about 80 different kinds of whales.

Whales like to hug each other. They sing songs. They have a blow hole on top of their head.

What do they look like?

The blue whale is the largest mammal in the world and it is bigger than any elephant.

Some whales are spiny and some are long and have a hump on their back.

There are birds on a car.

Pick

Whales eat squid, seals, a lot of fish and with other whales.

How do they breathe?

Whales can hold their breath for 30 and some other whales can for 90 minutes. They have a blow hole on the top of their head to help them breathe and they go up to the surface.

Baby

Baby whales are called calves and they drink milk from mommy.

 WALT writes a story
 "The tiger who came to tea"
 Sophie and her mummy were having cake and sweets for a treat. Just then there was a knock on door.
 "Who is that?" said Sophie.
 "There was a big striped tiger at the door. He said that he was hungry." She asked him in.
 Sophie said "Do you want one sweet cake?" The tiger ate them all.
 "Do you want one yummy
 sandwich?" said Sophie.
 The tiger ate them all.
 "Do you want a cup of tea?"
 said Sophie.

Year 2's Amazing Work!

Tuesday 30th June

This is a very big, nice welcome home, so you like animals that is the perfect house and you can have an animal party. This house is kindly made for old people because there are no stairs so they don't need to walk upstairs to their house. A house like this lives in a countryside so you can get some fresh air and breathe in the fresh air when you get cold. The house has a front and back garden. Inside there is a very warm bed. You can get food from a server cupboard. It is full of delicious food.

NEW to the market, this little charming cottage comes with an acre of land together with 4 stables, rarely available! Other than low hanging bills, thanks to the spacious place, it's right next to Farnborough Primary school. A real plus is that the cottage has been granted planning permission to extend it to a 5 bedroom house. Don't wait first one will buy.

My achievement awards this week go to Sam and James B for their fantastic photo collages, Jonathan for his authentic Roman structure and to George and Lacey for their hard work in all tasks that have tackled and for trying their best.

Amazing Work
by Phoenix Class!

I would see monkeys picking bananas off the trees to eat. I would also see a glistening waterfall pouring into a small lake with tiny fish in it.

This jungle is like paradise. It's peaceful and quiet place where you can relax. Animals dance around you. You even get a tour of the jungle sitting on top of an elephant!

In this jungle there are friendly dinosaurs and you meet another tribe of explorers. They said that there was treasure behind the waterfall. That's another adventure for me.

Eva for always completing work set to a high standard and answering my questions and challenges enthusiastically - well done!

Today was an amazing day of exploring. I was excited to be back exploring the deep, dense jungle. I pulled up my strong walking trousers and clipped on my yellow tape measure. I made sure my binoculars were working because I wanted to see all the rare creatures in the Solalie jungle. I left my tent at 5:30 pm.

Darcy for working hard and making sure her work is always incredibly neat, a super job!

Year 4 Griffins Amazing Work!

Once there was a girl called Ella and she lived in Tenerife. One day she was wandering down to the beach and she stepped on the scorching hot sand. "OW!" Ella exclaimed, "that's hot!". It nearly burnt her tiny toes off. Then she heard a little voice emerge from the rock pool. "Whos there?" Ella pondered. It was a mysterious creature, she could only see shimmering bubbles coming from the sparkling water. As she approached closer she saw through squinted eyes that it was a magical neon star fish. It was as luminous as the burning sun. "Hello, who are you?" came the little voice from the starfish. "I'm Ella" she whispered. "Nice to meet you" said the little voice again. Ella noticed a glimmering shell next to the star fish. "Whats that" enquired Ella. "Blow into the shell, its magical!". Ella was apprehensive. "It makes your dreams come true". Ella had always dreamed of being a mythical mermaid.....

English day 2

Excitedly Sammy jumped out of his bed he had been tossing and turning all night he couldn't sleep, all he could think of was getting back to the bookshop. But this time he was going alone, gingerly he crept down the stairs he didn't want to wake up his grandma. He quietly shut the front door and rapidly legged it to the bookshop.

Once inside the bookshop he noticed there was no sign of the old man, but sitting in the corner swaying in a rocking chair was a old lady, knitting. "Can I help you my dear?" she said. "No miss, I mean yes miss I have come to get a book, can you look at a book?" Sammy plusterly said. "Well of course" she said raising her eyebrows. There was a book that had fallen off the shelf and it seem to be laying there by itself. Sammy picked up this book, it was called 'the tales of the trolls'.

Welcome to the school of Ancient Greece

The entertainment that Ancient Greece had to offer is so special and very extremely unique. Today, I will be explaining the differences of entertainment between Greek men and women and how the entertainment system has changed over time compared to now.

Theaters were a large part of entertainment in Ancient Greece. They were very important and were even considered by them as a part of their culture. They could hold up to 14,000 people inside a theater. They were so popular that audiences would travel from all over Greece just to watch. Early Greek theaters were typically built into hillsides and made circular. Women and all audience members could hear what the actors were saying. Women were seen as inferior to men and only went for cooking, cleaning and baking after the boys. This meant that they were not permitted to perform on the theater stages, therefore, all female roles in plays were played by men.

Spent in the Ancient Greece world too

Helena for her brilliant information about Ancient Greek life.

Food

During the breakfast time, they like to serve barley bread dipped in wine. The olive oil was sometimes used to complement their breakfast menu. There are other meals on the table. They liked to eat pancakes too. Tagerius was another popular meal to serve made from the combination of curdled milk, honey, olive oil, and wheat flour.

There are a lot of things you have to do to become a VIP - Very Independent Person
