There are only three grounds on which appeals to infant classes may be considered. Please indicate below, which of these grounds you believe applies in your case.

6. The reasons for my appeal are: (Please continue on separate sheets if necessary)

a) That the admission of my child would not breach the infant class size limit

b) That a place would have been offered if the admission arrangements had complied with admissions law or had been correctly and impartially applied.

For your appeal to succeed on this ground, you will have to show that the normal admission arrangements as published by the Admission Authority were not properly followed and if they had, your child would have been offered a place.
