

Animals including Humans

Why are senses important to you?

Key Vocabulary
Body	Humans are animals from the mammal group.
Senses	Humans have 5 senses. They are touch, smell, taste, hearing and sight.
Nose	A nose is used for our sense of smell. It can tell if things smell or unpleasant.
Tongue	A tongue is used for our sense of taste. It can tell if something tastes bitter or sweet. You might have tastes you like or don't like.
Teeth	A teeth is for hard objects in our mouth used to break food up.
Eyes	Eyes are used to see things all around you. This is your sight.
Ears	Ears are used to listen to things all around you. They can hear different sounds.
Skin	Skin gives you your sense of touch. You can tell if something is warm, smooth ,rough by feeling an object.

Knowledge Organiser Year 1

Key Vocabulary
smell	The sense of smell happens when different odours are identified from the nose.
taste	The sense of taste happens when different flavours are identified by the tongue.
sight	The sense of sight happens when eyes see different objects around you.
touch	The sense of touch happens when any part of the body feels a sensation from an object.
hearing	The sense of hearing happens when different sounds are identified from ears.
human	Humans animals from the mammal group of animals.
mammals	Mammals are one of the animal groups.
taste buds	Taste buds recognise the basic kinds of taste.
flavours	Flavour describe what something tastes like.
scent	Scent describes what something smells of.
odour	Odour describes what something smells of.
sound	Sounds are made when something vibrates.
vibrates	Vibrates are movements happening quickly and continuously.
image	Image is a visual representation of something.

